MAYOR'S VETO IS SUSTAINED

Long Discussion Over Board of Health Bill in Council--Very Little Other Business.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and council was held on Wednesday evening, with Councilmen Littlefield Clark, Leary, Smart, Herrick, Parsons and Sugden.

There was very little business, the greater part of the time being taken up with the discussion of the bill of Dr. Luce to the Board of Health, for the observation of immigrants.

Mayor Badger reported that the crossing gates for Bartlett street crossing, had been installed and were now in working order.

The Rockingham Light and Power company were granted locations

LOCAL WOMAN VICTIM OF PICKPOCKET

Had Visited Theatre in Boston When Slick Thief Stole Her Opera Glasses

On Tuesday evening Dr. and Mrs. William O. Jenkins attended the performance of Ben Hur at the Boston Theatre.

As the couple were leaving the theatre after the performance, a thief, unbeknown to Mrs. Jenkins, opened her hand bag and took from the same a costly pair of opera glasses.

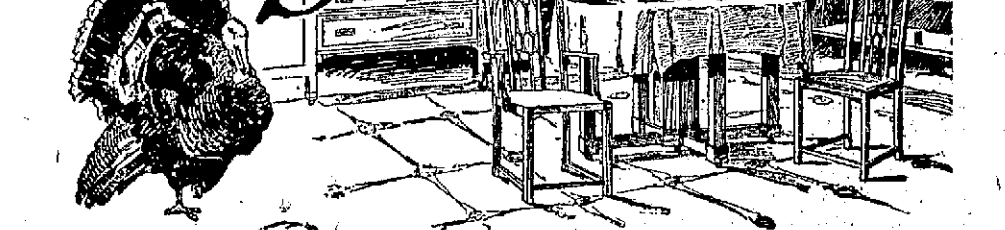

The act was detected by a woman, and her shouts, "You are being robbed," caused some of the bystanders to seize the fellow and hold him until an officer arrived and took him into custody.

At police headquarters he was recognized as an old offender and will undoubtedly receive a good sentence.

The stolen opera glasses were found on his person at the time of the arrest.

The Boston police notified the local police to have Mrs. Jenkins come to Boston and appear against the fellow, but owing to not seeing the crime committed she declined to appear in court.

EMIGRANT HAS HIS TROUBLES

Lands Here With Only Postoffice Box Address

A Russian Jew who arrived here on the 10:30 a. m. train on Wednesday had lots of trouble in locating his friends in this city. He had just left the emigrant station at Boston and all the address that he had in his possession was P. O. Box 326, Portsmouth, N. H.

To make it harder for him he could not speak a word of English. After some time he was put in charge of one of the cab drivers at the station who took him to the post office where his troubles were straightened out.

It was found that box 326 was rented by a resident of Russell street and the stranger was later landed among his countrymen in that district.

BURNED SAVING HER CHILDREN CARPENTERS TO BE REINSTATED

Portland, Me., Woman Brings Suits Too Few To Upset Re-election Plans

Portland, Me., Nov. 22--This afternoon the house of William W. Shaw at 29 Newbury street caught fire and almost immediately the dwelling was filled with stifling smoke.

Mrs. Shaw gave the care of her infant only a few weeks, to a friend and rushed upstairs for her two other children. She found the little ones one 2 and the other 3 years old huddled under the bed.

Taking them by the hand, she fought her way back down the stairs. Though her own face and hands were badly burned, she shielded her charges and the children escaped unharmed.

The damage to the house and furniture is estimated at from $500 to $1000 and will be covered by the insurance.

On the way to the fire a horse attached to Combination Truck 2 fell the pole broke, the truck came around sharply and struck Mrs. James Parks. Mrs. Parks was knocked down and suffered severe injuries. She was hurried to her home and this evening was reported to be doing well.

A feature of the Herald is the live local news of the day.

Atlanta, Nov. 22--When the convention of the American Federation of Labor meets tomorrow it will be with the expectation of hearing and passing on the reports of two of its most important committees that on the adjustment of industrial disputes and that on the president's report.

The adjustment committee has in hand the long controversy between the carpenters and the sheet metal workers, which resulted last year in the expulsion of the carpenters from the building trades department. It is expected that the committee will recommend the reinstatement of the carpenters if they will agree to abide by the decision of the department in future disputes.

All the recommendations made by Pres. Gompers in his annual report have been considered by the committee to which it was referred. Chairman Wilson said today that the committee would make some recommendations of vital importance to the federation.

The convention will adjourn on Saturday. Pres. Gompers and the other officers will probably be easily re-elected for the year.

The "Socialists" have not sufficient strength to make serious opposition. It is regarded as practically certain that the 1912 convention will be held at Rochester, N. Y., although Richmond, Va., is vigorously seeking the meeting.

The following resolutions were adopted today:

Favoring the construction of all Government vessels in Government shipyards.

Indorsing the strike on the Harlan lines.

Changing Memorial Day from the second to the fourth Sunday in May.

Advocating compulsory education, free schoolbooks in public schools and night schools.

Petitioning President Taft to recommend to the Governor of Porto Rico larger school appropriations, eight hour day and other beneficial legislation.

ARRESTED FOR CHADWICK ROBBERY WOODS CHOSEN COACH

Boston Police Hold M. S. Vicker for the Job - Refuses to Come Back With Local Police

Will Instruct Dartmouth Base Ball Team

Timothy McVicker was arrested in Boston by the police of that city on Wednesday on a warrant from this city, charging him with breaking and entering and larceny of guns in the store of Chadwick and Trefethen on Saturday night last.

Officer Shannon with the warrant and Inspectors Patterson and Norton of Boston located McVicker at the St. James Hotel. He denied a knowledge of the robbery when placed under arrest and refused to leave the state without the necessary papers. He was arraigned in the Municipal court there and held as a fugitive under the bonds of $1000 pending the issue of papers. The police here have evidence that McVicker and a man named Blake were in this city on Saturday, but they are unable to get in touch with Blake. They also claim that they have evidence that McVicker was seen with guns on Sunday in Boston. If the papers are not ready on Wednesday to bring him to New Hampshire he will again be arraigned and further held.

The Dartmouth Athletic Council has chosen Walter S. Woods, the well known base ball player of this city, as the present assistant instructor in swimming at the Laureate Club of Troy, N. Y., where he went after finishing the season with the Buffalo baseball team. Woods began his base ball career with Phillips Exeter and afterward joined the Haverhill and Portland, Me., New England League teams.

In 1897 he played with Springfield of the Eastern League and a year later joined the Chicago Nationals. At that time he has been seen with the Pittsburgh and Jersey City teams. He was born in Rye, N. H., in 1875 and for two years coached the New Hampshire State ball team at Durham.

Woods succeeds Tom Keady, Dartmouth '09 who is considered the best base ball coach Dartmouth ever had. Keady coached Dartmouth four years and turned out a team that won from Harvard every year he was in charge.

THE DAY NURSERY

Capt. Weatherly Tells of the Plans Now Underway

With the proposed establishment of a day nursery and arrangements for Thanksgiving dinner and Christmas baskets free for children, Portsmouth branch of the Salvation Army is one of the most active institutions in the city. Capt. Weatherly says the day nursery would care for the children whose parents are forced to work to support themselves and families during the day.

The whole affair has been talked over by the Overseers of the Poor, County Commissioners, Mrs. M. I. Wood and the Salvation Army. The city authorities have not as yet been approached on the subject.

Thanksgiving dinner will be served to the poor children in Exchange building on State street W. I. Traflet will show stereopticon views. The Christmas charity of the Army will be the distribution of baskets of food.

Capt. Weatherly states the fund for the purchase of the Exchange building has not been started, but arrangements are being made for a campaign at the beginning of the new year.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1911.

William C. Coffin, a well-known newspaper man of Newburyport has been recommended for postmaster of that city to succeed F. L. Atkinson. His newspaper friends in this city congratulated him on his good fortune.

General Bixby, chief of engineers, in his annual report to the secretary of war, says that $500,000 will be required for carrying on the work of the 35 foot channel in Boston Harbor during the next fiscal year. This is in addition to an unexpended balance on July 1 last of $862,176.43. In connection with the recommendation of General Bixby for the improvement of the approach to the Charlestown navy yard, we are happy to say that no appropriation is necessary for dredging Portsmouth harbor as the ample depth of water leading to the navy yard was furnished by nature.

The eleven representing the Stevens high school of Claremont and the Richards high school of Newport are to meet on the gridiron on Saturday next and it is announced that the winner will be the champion of New Hampshire, as neither team has been defeated. Not too fast boys, the school football team to claim the championship of New Hampshire has got to first measure strength, endurance and skill with the eleven that represents the Portsmouth high, which has as much right to the State championship as either of the other teams, until the claim is sustained.

Although the winter season of frosts and rough weather is not yet far advanced there have been many disasters along the New England coast. The United States government is spending thousands of dollars in maintaining life saving stations and crews, and yet we haven't the backbone to insist that every vessel or steamer of any considerable size carries a wireless outfit. The answer from the ship owners that it costs too much simply means that it is cheaper to lose life than it is to carry the wireless. In the long run it will be found that the carrying of the wireless means economy to every shipping concern that adopts it.

With the approach of Thanksgiving week naturally comes the query from the family providers: What are turkeys going to cost this year? Inquiry today elicited the information that from present indications prices would rule approximately the same as in the past two years at this season.

The price of turkeys, like the price of everything else, is declared to be governed by supply and demand. The local dealers say they have no way of getting absolute information on what the supply is going to be, for it has not reached the market and probably will not until Saturday and Sunday.

They assume, however, that it will be about normal. They assume also, from the state of business, generally that the demand will also be normal which in case the assumption in both cases is correct, they declare that the prices which prevail at present will hold good up to Thanksgiving Day and probably thereafter.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS

Canada's great loyalty to England may cause it to wonder why it should be less an object of the king's personal attention than India.

The styles in hats promise solace for the man whose "beaver" persists in being brushed the wrong way.

Good roads are commended as a means of advancing civilization, but some states would rather try the whipping post.

No high-art robber ever thinks of coming to this country and stealing some of the statuary from various parks.

The crown prince of Germany may find difficulty in getting even the perfunctory "leave to print."

The phrase "holy war" appears to be employed by Mohammedans merely as a figure of speech.

Ohio's enthusiasm over a boom for any man outside the state can hardly be expected to last very long.

One difficulty the socialists have is that of developing an idea that will not be promptly appropriated by some statesman of more conservative affiliations.

Occasionally develops a rumor of war, but Asia and Africa have a most reckless fashion of going ahead and delivering the goods.

People who patronize horse shows have to be exceedingly careful to avoid being run into by one another's automobiles.

Enthusiastic invitations to T. A. to get back into the arena may be due to the influence of the foot ball excitement.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

A Common Thief

Under the laws of New York it is found possible to convict as a common thief a banker who makes way with trust funds. Plain stealing was the term employed by the district attorney to describe one of the transactions revealed by the collapse of the Carnegie Trust Company. The stripped of the nice terminology which distinguishes statutes for the protection of banks against looting from the inside, that is what the common mind would call many repugnant transactions. Those who by devious methods misappropriate bank funds are not classed with thieves of low degree, though fortunately their punishment may be as rigorous. In the present instance palpably, as the prosecuting attorney reminded the court, "the money was there; the opportunity was there and the thief was there; and there followed the result which is inevitable in that combination of circumstances—it was just crude stealing."

After the testimony had been concluded, the court took the same view. The charge warned the jury that the prisoner at bar was not to be judged as a bad banker, or for kitting cheques, or exercising a mischief.

PLENTY OF PROOF

From People You Know—From Portsmouth Citizens

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced by evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of many of residents of Portsmouth, of people who can be seen at anytime. Read the following case of it:

B. A. Berry, 147 Congress St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Donn's Kidney Pills were used by a member of my family and proved of great benefit. The person referred to suffered terribly from lame back and was often stiff and sore. Learning of Donn's Kidney Pills, a box was procured and Philipbrick's Pharmacy and their use begun. This remedy promptly disposed of the complaint."

President Taft's Hat

The return of the plug hat as a part of the folsam and folsam of fashion does not bother President Taft. He has ordered the construction of a brand new derby, made in such dimensions as to accommodate a well-filled and level head. The assumption that this style of derby is to be the President's headwear for the coming campaign may be easily true. The President has had much experience with silk hats, and they don't last well in campaigns. They get battered about too much, and soon lost their dignity and self-respect. The derby has more qualifications for meeting the exigencies of life—political and other—than the ancient silk tite, and it is no longer regarded as inconsistent with the higher forms of statesmanship.—Philadelphia Press.

Buy Presents Now

Already many wise and estimable people, and especially the women in the Consumers' League, are addressing their annual appeal to the generous and tender hearted, but so often inconsiderate. Christmas shoppers to get at the performance of his or her task betimes, instead of leaving it all to be done in the desperate hurry, confusion and weariness of the week that precedes the anniversary. Most of these appeals take the form of pathetic stories, all quite true, about the cruelly long hours of exhausting work which this procrastination imposes upon thousands and thousands of shop employees—the girls and women, the boys and men for whom, because of it, and entirely without need, Christmas means not a joyous festival, but a week full of horrors and pains. This argument out to be effective, and indeed, it has been, with many people, but there are other arguments of even wider application, since they can be bought of bear upon both the considerate and the inconsiderate. It is just as much for the advantage of the Christmas shopper to shop early as it is for those who do the selling.—New York Times.

Room for Old as Well as Young

It is a mistake to suppose that our most important business undertakings depend wholly for their success on the brains and activity of young men. Whenever there are young men at the front in finance or trade it will generally be found that close to them are men well along in years whose well balanced minds are still responsible largely for the prosperity of the concern. The ages of these sole counselors may range anywhere from 45 to 70 years.

Experience is a very valuable asset in finance, commerce and in the government service. A cabinet officer new to his duties always depends for sound advice on the experienced subordinate usually an old man who has been many years in the department. In fact many government officials would have been bank failures were it not for the brainy work of their aged subordinates. Every large manufacturing concern has employees whose years of service are invaluable to their employer. Old blood counts as well as new blood in most establishments. Young men in every occupation can learn from their older associates.

The longevity and vigor of superintendents, bookkeepers, clerks, salesmen, bricklayers and others who are near to the head of an industrial enterprise is very remarkable, and duly appreciated by sagacious chiefs. Young men of ability should be recognized everywhere, but not necessarily to the detriment of tried and true employees.—Boston Globe.

The Shooting of Dees

The very considerable diminution in the amount of game that is being brought down from the Maine woods in comparison with the returns of other years has led to suggestions of a number of quarters, that it may soon be necessary to place a continual close time on does. Not only are the receipts very small in comparison up to date, but the deer that have been brought down are mostly does and very small ones at that, an indication that the number of deer becoming greatly lessened in the Maine forests.

There is also another argument that is used in advocating a continual close time on does and that is that such tends to lessen the number of accidents. The reason is no far arranged by Fred C. Grandy, Chas. seek. The hunter who is compelled to determine whether his quarry is a buck or a doe cannot fire his gun at a sound in the bushes. The momentary pause that he must make Misses Annie and Belle Osagood and the glimpse that he must have of are passing a few days in Boston.

the game prevents the carelessness that often costs human life. This is no theory as the records of hunting fatalities kept by the United States bureau of biological survey show that the percentage of accidents is very materially less in the states in which the shooting of does is forbidden. Indeed, Dr. Palmer the chief of the bureau states that in the three years during which a record had been kept it has been ascertained that there are practically no hunting accidents in the states which prohibit the shooting of does.

The record kept by the bureau shows that this far this year there have been 50 hunting fatalities, Michigan leading with 15 and New York following with nine. The bureau expects that before the game seasons have closed in all the states the total fatalities will be brought up to the record of last year—150.—Bangor Commercial.

Taste in Dress

One of our foremost "literators," in his yearning for social advancement, has just discovered that a "dinner jacket must never be worn at dinner," but the writer of the program notes addresses, or seems to address, persons of much larger sophistication than his. From him we may learn that scarfpins have been generally discarded by the elect because the common herd wears them though a single pearl may pass muster if it be of very fine quality. In the matter of white evening waistcoats he is adamant as Mrs. Crupp David Copperfield's landlady, was in the matter of celery and mashed potatoes. Your waistcoat must be of exactly the same degree of whiteness as you shirt or you will be damned, "like an ill-roasted egg, all on one side." Nightly the multitude learns how its white evening gloves must be stitched in the backs, if it would be in "form." It seems that the multitude must never turn down its gloves at the wrists for the ordinary people have learned that trick that once denoted good breeding but is now utterly banal.

Doubtless cultivation of the masses in material matters is desirable and the "exclusively" thus placed in the way of every man or boy who can afford a theatre ticket will do much for the improvement of the National taste.—New York Times.

Civil Pensions

The Secretary of the Navy makes a strong declaration in favor of a system of civil pension for federal employees. The earnest advocacy of a system of civil service retirement by the Secretary of the Treasury has made known and here is probably no member of the cabinet who does not believe in it not merely for sentimental reasons, but as a sound business policy. It is easy to say that the federal employee should accumulate enough to care for him in his old age, and that if he is unprovided he should not expect the government to care for him; but the fact is that he does not save and that the government does take care of him. It has been impossible to find men competent to fill cabinet places who were willing, to employ Secretary McVeigh's language, "to act as official headmen for the government."

TOO YOUNG TO GIVE EVIDENCE

Offered by State as a Witness Against Father

Fitchburg, Nov. 22—Edward Golden, a 12-year-old son of George Golden, a shoe merchant of Wickford, charged with the killing of his wife, did not testify at his father's trial today as expected.

Judge John D. Shafer would not allow the boy to testify on account of his youth. The same decision held good when the prosecution called Albert Sampson, aged 9 a playmate of Edward, whom he is alleged to have told about the shooting.

Mrs. Golden was shot late on the night of July 18. Golden claims to have been suddenly aroused from sound sleep and to have fired his revolver at a shadow near a window believing a burglar was in the room. Instead he killed his wife. The prosecution alleges Golden deliberately murdered his wife from fear of being exposed by her from business transactions not altogether in accordance with law.

The Golden boy was in the room on the night of the tragedy. When neighbors arrived the boy was kneeling beside his mother's body, crying.

Mrs. Jerry Small, who lived next door to the Golden testified at the recent habeas corpus hearing that she heard Mrs. Golden say, "Don't do it, George; don't do it," followed by three revolver shots. According to her, the Golden house was lighted up at the time, directly contrary to Golden's statement that the house was in darkness.

Miss Small has disappeared since the habeas corpus hearing and all efforts to find her have been futile. Lacking Mrs. Small's testimony, the prosecution had hoped to have the boy testify whether there were lights or whether there was any conversation between his parents that night.

SAIL FOR SANTO DOMINGO

Washington, Nov. 22—A wireless dispatch to the Navy Department today announced the sailing at 1 o'clock of the armored cruiser Washington and North Carolina from Hampton Roads with American Minister Russell aboard the former, bound for Santo Domingo. With good weather the run should be made in time to reach Santo Domingo city Sunday morning.

The State Department officials feel that the precautions adopted in the dispatch of these impressive vessels to Santo Domingo will certainly prevent further trouble there and insure an orderly election of a successor to the late Pres. Caceres.

Although the Government of Santo Domingo apparently is able to cope with the situation arising from the assassination of Pres. Caceres, which was followed by the resignation from the Cabinet of E. Tejera Bonetti, Minister of Communications and a brother of the assassin, affairs are being watched closely by the United States for developments.

Gen. Tejera, the assassin, was captured and put to death, and Gen. Pimentel, an accessory, also was executed, according to reports to the State Department today. Following the commission of the crime a number of arrests were made.

Santo Domingo city continues quiet and the situation thus far is reported to be under control. The cabinet has assumed charge of the executive power, pending the appointment of a provisional president when Congress meets on Nov. 30.

Colored Residents Planning to Observe Event in 1912

Plans for a celebration in 1912 of the fiftieth anniversary of the emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln were discussed Wednesday night at a mass meeting of the colored residents of the city in South Ward room. Though the celebration will exceed previous observances of the emancipation white residents of the city will not be asked to contribute to its expense. Burton, chairman; William T. Paffin, James F. Slaughter, Fitz A. Williams, Mrs. Martha G. Allen, Mrs. Jennie Adams and Miss Ida D. Lewis.

NEWSPAPER MAN FOR POSTMASTER

William C. Coffin Recommended for Postmaster of Newburyport

Newburyport, Nov. 22.—Simultaneously with an announcement this afternoon that Postmaster Fred L. Atkinson had tendered his resignation, to take effect Dec. 31, came a telegram from Washington that Congressman A. P. Gardner had recommended William C. Coffin as Mr. Atkinson's successor.

Mr. Atkinson has served nearly two years on his second term, and resignation was caused by a press of other business and a warning from his physician that he must curtail his activities.

Mr. Coffin was for years city editor of the Newburyport Herald and more recently has been a member of the staff of the Newburyport News and Newburyport correspondent of the Boston Globe. He was for five years chairman of the Republican City Committee and is now chairman of the Ward Six Committee. He has served in both branches of the City Council, is a past master and the present secretary of St. John's Lodge, A. F. and A. M., member of Quasacumque Lodge of Odd Fellows, clerk and treasurer of the Belleville Congregational Society, director of the public library, and an officer in other bodies. He is 44 years old, married and has two children.

On Wednesday afternoon, as the tug Portsmouth was towing the huge five masted schooner "Dorothy Palmer" down river, the 10-inch hawser parted when a short distance below the stone beacon. In addition to the strong ebb tide, a heavy northwest wind was blowing, and it looked for a time as though the big craft would crash down upon the navy yard coal pocket. Anchors were let go at once, but at first failed to hold her, and only the skillful handling of the tug in this emergency prevented a serious disaster. As it was, when finally brought up, the vessel's stern swung clear of the rocks by a very narrow margin.

EXETER.

The lecture room of the First church was the scene of an entertaining production of the cantata, "Under the Palms" or "The Feast of the Flowers," for the benefit of the piano fund of the church. It was under the direction of Norman S. McKendrick and the chorus was composed of upwards of 100 voices, all members of the Sunday school.

The cantata portrayed the scenes of the Jewish Feast of the Tabernacle. One of the attractive features was decoration of palms, pines and firs. The principal parts were Ezra, Alvin H. Vroom; Joshua, Harlan M. Bisbee; Miriam, Mrs. Robert Mason; Zillah, Elizabeth L. Mayo. Oran G. Kirkpatrick of Phillips academy rendered several tenor solos.

With Thanksgiving day a trifle over a week off, the parties and benefits are being planned. One of the earliest will be the party and entertainment by St. Michael's church, which is set for Monday and Tuesday evenings Nov. 27 and 28. These will be held in the town hall and attractive programs have been arranged for each night. There is to be dancing.

A thorough investigation has not yet been made and it has not been established just how much damage has been done. Whether it was done with the intention of robbery or just by tramps to secure a lodging is also not known. The house is situated on Lady hill and is some distance from the central part of the town.

MILITANT SUFFRAGETTES GET JAIL SENTENCES

London, Nov. 22.—European suffragettes to the number of 200, many of whom are apparently still in their teens, appeared at Bow street Police Court today to answer for their sins of yesterday, and were sentenced to fines or alternative terms of imprisonment varying from a fortnight to a month. The women invariably chose prison instead of a fine.

Counsel for the public prosecutor said he could not adequately describe the "disgraceful and disorderly scenes of organized disorder" of which the accused were guilty.

From the evidence, it is quite certain that the militant suffragettes acted yesterday on a complete plan of campaign. As soon as they were repulsed by the police drawn up in Parliament Square they dispersed into small groups, who mixed with the crowds.

These were kept on the move by the police. Occasionally a missile was hurled from the middle of the "throng," but the police were unable to detect the thrower. This gave the militants more confidence, and as they came within reach of the Government offices in Whitehall and the surrounding streets the throwing of stones became more frequent and excited shouts of "votes for women" were raised. It was here that most of the arrests were effected. Some of the women fought their captors with great vigor.

At the National Liberal Club on Thames Embankment the excitement reached its height. The club was full of members and their friends. These flocked to the windows as the crowds approached, but were soon forced to retreat, in order to avoid the showers of well-aimed stones which crashed through the lower windows. Many more arrests were made here and also along the Strand, where the telegraph office was attacked, as well as a number of stores.

Some of the Suffragettes rode in horse and motor cabs, from which they launched stones. Newspaper reporters

HYDRO-AEROPLANE FOR EACH BATTLESHIP.

Another year will see the hydro-aeroplane developed to such an extent that each battleship of the American Navy may have its own flying machine, in the opinion of Captain Washington I. Chambers, who has charge of the aeronautical work of the Navy Department. Captain Chambers believes that as soon as a solution is found for the motor problem, on which practically all aviation experts are now working, the installation of hydro-aeroplanes as a part of the equipment of battleships will be begun. It is not considered probable that the navy aeronauts will follow the plan of the army and move its equipment South for practice during the winter when the weather at Annapolis, where the navy hydro-aeroplane experiments are carried on, becomes too disagreeable for flying purposes. The aeronauts will give attention exclusively to the motor problem. They believe that by the time the flying season opens again in spring they will have perfected a horse and motor cabs, from which they launched stones. Newspaper reporters

MAYOR'S VETO IS SUSTAINED

The Mayor's Veto on Board of Health Bill.

Mayor Badger's veto of the Dr. Luca bill to the Board of Health, for services for watching cholera suspects, already published in this paper, was read.

This started a discussion that lasted nearly an hour.

Councilman Herrick asked for the views of the Chairman of the Board of Health, Dr. Johnston, and he spoke at some length on the veto, claiming that when the board asked for an appropriation the first of the year, it was to cover all expenses and at that time they were in no position to specify what the different items would be, as there was no way of knowing. They did not know that there would be cholera suspects to look after or how many contagious diseases they would be called upon to take care of, and for that reason they had a right to expend the money for whatever arose without first going to the council. They had, however, asked that they be allowed to expend a sum of not over $5 per person on the suspects, but this with the bill of the chairman for extra services in the cases, were tabled. He cited cases where the city had paid physicians for services this past year. One bill of Dr. Luca for diphtheria cases amounting to $24, was paid by the city and approved by the Auditor. The bill of O. W. Ham for burial of one of the diphtheria victims was also paid. His argument was that if these were necessary cases so were the inspection and surveillance of cholera suspects, and in that case the bill was legal. He maintained that his duties as Chairman of the Board of Health did not require him to treat patients, only such as were paupers of the city and these were all aliens. He stated that recently he visited Attorney General Eastman, who was a member of the state board of health and had laid before him all of the matter in the case, the city charter, the ordinances, a copy of the veto, and the order of the State Board of Health to watch the suspects and on this he had rendered an opinion, already published in this paper, that the city was liable for the bill.

Mayor Badger stated that the bill of Dr. Luca was for work like that done by the Chairman of the Board, and for which the Council had refused to pay. He was of the opinion that it was a matter that could have a ruling by the Court and inquired of the City Solicitor as to the cost of such a ruling, so that the matter could be settled for all time, as there were many other bills of the same description hanging on in decision.

City Solicitor Emery was of the opinion that it would cost about $5,000 and that the city would have to pay the bill, so he would feel that it had a losing case, after the opinion of the Attorney General. Mr. Emery stated that in his opinion the bill was legal and the Board had the right to order the work done, he advised the Board to that effect and had also advised the Council to the effect.

The argument was continued with Councilman Parsons taking part at Councilmen Herrick and Leary occasionally having an opinion.

On motion of Councilman Herrick, that the bill be paid disregarding the veto of the Mayor the roll call was: Yes—Clark, Smart, Herrick and Suggen; no—Littlefield, Leary and Parsons, and there not being a two-third vote, the motion was lost, it taking that vote to pass a bill over the Mayor's veto.

Councilman Herrick offered the following resolution on the death of Councilman Hammond, who had died since the last meeting, and it was adopted:

City of Portsmouth, New Hampshire. A resolution regarding the death of Councilman C. E. Hammond.

Resolved by the City Council of Portsmouth, N. H., assembled, as follows:—

That whereas Councilman Charles E. Hammond has lately deceased, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in Councilman Hammond's death the City Council has lost a faithful and efficient member and the city of Portsmouth an honest and upright citizen; and be it further

Resolved, That this expression of regret and sorrow at his untimely death be made known to his family by the presentation to them of a copy thereof.

The report of the City Auditor, showing bills amounting to $61,509.08 was passed. This includes the state and county taxes, amounting to about $60,000. His estimate of payrolls for the month of December amounted to $3,478.45 was approved and the Mayor authorized to draw his warrant for the amount when due.

The council adjourned to Dec. 11, when they will canvas the votes.

DIED FIGHTING FOR COUNTRY.

Official Report of the Death of Ensign Hovey Received by His Mother.

Mrs. H. E. Hovey of State street, mother of that brilliant young naval officer, Ensign C. E. Hovey, who was killed in the Philippines and whose funeral will be held here on Saturday forenoon, has received an official account of the death of her son, from Lieut. Charles A. Woodruff, the commanding officer of the U. S. S. Panganga, to which Ensign Hovey was attached. All previous accounts of his death have been in Don's Ointment letters from the enlisted men of his or motoring piles after years of suffering. At any drug store,

Lieut. Woodruff, after expressing his sympathy and sorrow for the death of his fellow officer, stated that on September 17, the Commanding General requested that the Panganga cooperate with Major Fraloy, who was then operating on the Island of Basilan against a Yakan Moro chief named Mondang. Major Fraloy's request he handed twenty-one men with Ensign Hovey in command. They camped in a small place in northeastern Basilan named Tabla. Ensign Hovey was anxious to go in the field and according to regulations it was his duty to command the landing party. They were operating in that section searching everywhere for the Moro chief until September 22, when he got track of the bandit chief and at 3.30 in the morning he left his camp in command of a patrol consisting of the following men: Catherwood, Voltz, McGuire, Harrison, Henrichson, a scout soldier named Heesperes, who acted as an interpreter, and a native guide named Maharia Maisan.

Three hours later they entered a small village called Lapurap and surrounded the three houses, and Ensign Hovey with Catherwood, the largest house. When near the house they were fired upon and Ensign Hovey was wounded. The rest of the men at once charged to the rescue and the fighting was hand to hand against odds. Ensign Hovey cheering his men on and fighting the last, expiring his revolver and killing two Moros. His last word was a faithful and efficient member and the city of Portsmouth an honest and upright citizen; and be it further

BIG FLOCKS OF GEESE GOING SOUTH

Plymouth, Nov. 22.—For the past two days there has been a great flight of wild geese, and the shooting stands at the large ponds and at the shore have bagged a large number. At the Clarks Island stand 68 geese have been killed; at the West Side, Great South Pond, 35; at the East Side, 37; at Island Pond, 33; at Plymouth Beach, 18; at Duxbury shore, 50, and at the other places many more, as most of the stands filled from 10 to 20.

The flight is one of the largest ever known for this time of the year, and the geese are all the early season and none of the large winter birds have come along as yet.

THE ARBITRATION TREATIES

The spectacle of the President of the United States and the Secretary of State, each making a public address upon the subject of a treaty pending in the Senate, is something of very rare occurrence in our history. Indeed, the like ever happened before. On August 31st, President Taft, addressing the American Bar Association, at Bar Harbor, spoke earnestly on behalf of the Treaty of Arbitration that on the 4th of that month he had sent to the Senate. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations had reported their approval of the proposed Treaty, it amended by striking out a clause to which the committee had seriously objected. "I am most anxious," declared the President, "that that feature should be allowed to remain."

At Cincinnati, on the 5th of November, Secretary Knox defended the Treaty, in an address before the American Society for Judicial Settlement of International Disputes. He likewise emphasized the importance of preserving the word of the Treaty in their country. The Secretary's speech, excellent in tone and in the staple of its content, presents in clear and forcible terms his views upon a project so recently near to his heart.

If the action of the President and the Secretary of State is seen in a wholly new departure, it is none the less proper and commendable. This is so far the reason that the situation is a most remarkable one. The Senate it seems, has moved the injunction of secrecy. The reason for this act of the Senate is that the Treaty deals with an abstract question that of the policy of submitting our differences with a foreign power to arbitration. The subject involves taking a step of vital interest to every country in the world. There is no cause for concealing what is going on, though secrecy is the invariable rule with diplomatic affairs in their early stages.

Peaceable settlement of international disputes is an end whose attainment concerns every citizen in the land. Inasmuch as a majority of the Committee on Foreign Relations is not in accord with the President, in respect to one vitally important clause of the Treaty, the question of the policy to be pursued may very properly be laid before the people. To be sure, the number is not large of those who will take it should be explained, contemplated

The A-B-C of the GAS Industry

So the People May Know

GAS FOR LIGHT

J FOR JET. In other days gas burners were called jets, and curious names were given to the jets, possibly from the shape of the flame, such as fish-tail, or batwing jets. Nowadays when open burners are used the best kinds are the lava-tipped union jet or slit union burner. These burners give a smooth well rounded flame and do away with any objectionable "forking of the flame." A good lava tip is given free by the Gas Company to consumers of gas. If your burners are unsatisfactory, notify the Gas Company of the required attention.

the trouble to ascertain precisely what it is that divides the Senate Committee from the President, much less to examine into the subject-matter, so as to decide which appears to be the better plan to adopt. People take it for granted that it is a difference that will be adjusted somehow, to the best advantage of the United States, whether they give it their attention, or not.

It is worth while for us, however, to ascertain what is the nature and extent of this divergence of views. Fortunately, party politics has nothing to do with it. Nor is it a struggle between the Executive and the Senate. It is simply a variance as to methods that has arisen between men, all of whom are desirous of reaching the same result. The Senate Committee, it happens, are not unanimous, three of their number side with the President. Since there are thirteen members of the Committee it will be seen that the majority against the administration view is a large one.

The United States for a long period has maintained an attitude of readiness to resort to arbitration, whenever circumstances have permitted. Indeed, our country may fairly claim to have taken the lead in pointing out to the world the path of peace. A noble advance in that direction was accomplished when we sent to the Tribunal at Geneva the threatening question of the settlement of the Alabama Claims. In later years we have heartily seconded the efforts of broad-minded men, in various parts of the world, to establish the Peace Tribunal at The Hague. In 1907 as is well known, a convention was concluded at The Hague which makes it possible, when carried into effect, to settle by peaceful means international disputes, as they from time to time arise. All the countries of importance joined in the good work. The friends of peace everywhere felt warranted in the belief that at last the day of great wars was over, for now every object was gone forever.

Earlier than 1907 we had negotiations with Great Britain, and with other powers, treaties of general arbitration. As sent to the Senate those treaties provided for the submission to arbitration of all questions that did not affect "the vital interests, the independence, or the honor of the two contracting states, and which did not concern the interests of third parties." The treaties, it is true, were not large of those who will take it should be explained, contemplated that as each difference comes up a special agreement is to be entered into, in order to determine the precise question to be passed upon, and the extent of the powers of the arbitrators. This action was to be taken by the executive without a reference to the Senate. "As might have been foreseen the Senate amended the text so as to require every special agreement to be sent before them by the President for advice and consent. The result was that the treaties failed.

Soon after the notable achievement at The Hague in 1907 was announced to the world, our Secretary of State, (Mr. Root) negotiated treaties with various powers, which provided that the "special agreement" to be entered into should be submitted to the Senate. A treaty of this character between the United States and Great Britain was proclaimed June 5, 1908, and still remains in force. By its terms, differences arising between the two countries of a legal nature, or relating to the interpretation of existing treaties, when they can not be settled by diplomacy, are to be referred to the Permanent Board of Arbitration at The Hague. The Treaty of 1908, however, contains the proviso that differences so submitted shall be such as "do not affect the vital interest, the independence or the honor of the two contracting states, and do not concern the interests of third parties."

The new general Treaty, in regard to which the difference of opinion between the Senate Committee and the President has been made public, employs very general language in its statement of what shall be submitted to arbitration. It sweeps in all differences "which are justiciable in their nature by reason of being susceptible of decision by the application of the principles of law or equity." There are sure to arise controversies where the two countries find that they do not agree that the subject-matter is "justiciable." That is to say, they conceive, or one of the countries conceives, that the circumstances are such that it is not proper that the subject be submitted to arbitration. Such an emergency is met by the language of the last clause of Article III. It reads as follows: "It is further agreed, however, that in cases in which the parties disagree as to whether or not a difference is subject to arbitration under Article I of this Treaty, that question shall be submitted to the Joint High Commission of Inquiry; and if all or all but one of the Members of the Commission agree and report that such difference is within the scope of Article I, it shall be referred to arbitration in accordance with the provision of this Treaty."

Such eminent authorities as Professor John Bassett Moore, of Columbia University, (formerly Assistant Secretary of State), and Governor Baldwin of Connecticut, late Chief Justice of that state, one of the most distinguished lawyers in the country, have taken the position taken by the President.

The reader will perceive that the point involved, if not technical, is by no means easy to be dealt with, by men who have had no training either in law or diplomacy. This is due to the fact that the real problem to be solved, is, how will this plan be likely to work in the future, when a delicate question shall come up of a perplexing nature that taxes the best powers of a trained mind to determine. The Treaty is meant to last for years to come. It sets a nation to work in a new and untried field. The statesman of long experience instinctively reminds himself that each step to be taken must be guarded by an extreme caution.

It would seem, therefore, that the Senate Committee are adopting the safer plan. This they do not because they are jealous of the rights of the Senate, as a part of the treaty-making power under the Constitution, but because from the knowledge these Senators have acquired in the discussions attending the approval of treaties, hitherto they are satisfied that so vital a question as the fitness of a subject for arbitration should be retained by the Senate in each case as it arises for the purpose of a thorough examination and discussion, before permitting the United States to the decision of a Board of Arbitrators.

It is impossible to predict what will be the outcome. That a settlement will be reached that shall be creditable alike to the Administration and to the Senate is not for a moment to be doubted. The great cause of peaceful arbitration will be advanced by the action of our public servants at Washington, whatever may be the disposition of the question raised as to the wisdom of the policy proposed in the clause.

WHO WILL PAY THE HEALTH BILL

Many Believe that the State is Responsible Under the Circumstances

--What the Statutes Say

While the bill of Dr. Luce is causing much comment and action on the part of the mayor and city government there are many citizens who believe that the city is doing the correct thing in not paying the charge. According to the public statutes they look to the state to compensate Dr. Luce under the circumstances which surround the case. The state board ordered the city to examine the cholera suspects and it's a question whether the cost covering the same shall come from the epidemic fund of the state or city treasury. The law reads as follows:

Chapter 11, Public Statutes, Section 4.—If in the opinion of the State board of health, it should be necessary to employ inspectors more effectually to accomplish the object of this act, the said board shall have the power to appoint competent persons for that duty; said inspectors to be paid a reasonable per diem for the time actually employed on said duty, and their necessary expenses, to be paid out of the epidemic fund of the state.

Chapter 110, Section 6.—The sum of five thousand dollars is appropriated as an epidemic fund, to be used, if necessary, under the direction of the governor and council, in case of the invasion or threatened invasion of cholera or other epidemic disease in this state.

Though no quarantine was established in this case, the work was done to prevent its introduction in the state. The following chapters touch on this case other than a quarantine.

Power to Establish Quarantine, etc. (1893, Ch. 30, Sect. 1.) The power to establish quarantine in this state shall be vested in the state board of health, and said board, whenever it is regarded necessary to prevent the introduction of cholera, smallpox, or other epidemic diseases from another state, or from another country, and to restrict said diseases if introduced, shall have the power to establish quarantine stations at such places as may be deemed necessary, and the said board shall make and enforce such quarantine rules and regulations as it may deem best for the public good, said rules and regulations to be in force when approved by the governor of the state.

(1893, Ch. 30, Sect. 2.) It shall be the duty of the health officers, in their respective towns, to enforce all rules and regulations issued by the state board of health, but should it become necessary to establish quarantine stations for the purpose of detention, isolation, disinfection, etc., the expense of the same, and its maintenance, shall be paid from the epidemic fund of the state. Local boards of health may establish quarantine in their respective towns, but shall report immediately such action to the state board of health, and it shall be the duty of said board, as early as practicable, to ascertain the necessity of such quarantine, or declare it raised.

TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

Always Looking Out for Boston Representative Roberts has requested that the Nebraska remain at the Boston navy yard for repairs instead of going to target practice with the rest of the Atlantic fleet. If the Nebraska is taken away now a number of mechanics will have to be laid off.

In making his request to the navy department Mr. Roberts pointed out that the Nebraska could do target practice at any time. While no definite action will be taken today, Mr. Roberts' request will probably be granted.

New Wireless Stations
Boston yard has a new wireless station which did its first work on Wednesday. As usual it is the best on the Atlantic coast.

A Crowd Will Go Up
A great crowd of rooters from the Tennessee and other ships at the yard are planning to be on hand at Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., on Thanksgiving Day, when the Tennessee men will try conclusions with the pigskin against the U. S. S. Rhode Island at Boston yard.

Want Them All On One Ship
It is understood that the department has been asked to allow the transfer of all prisoners from the U. S. S. Topeka to the Southern and that the first named ship be used entirely for officers and crew of the Southern.

Must Get Her Away in 30 Days
The Hist, sold on Tuesday last, must be taken from the yard within thirty days of sale.

A Funny Case
The question as to how much authority a Navy Reserve officer has over enlisted men in the navy is involved in the trial before a general court martial at the navy yard, New York, of an enlisted man of the U. S. Navy who questioned the authority of an officer of the 1st Battalion, Naval Reserve of New Jersey, whose headquarters are at Hoboken. The findings of the court have been forwarded to Washington. This is, we believe the first case on record of a regular sailor being tried for an offense to a Naval Militia officer. So far it has been found possible to conduct joint maneuvers and handle the Reserve without going into this question. It is believed to be still possible to do this without any special legislation.

PENSIONS ON THE B. & M.
Great Army of Employees Still Hoping For the System
Co-operative pensions, the expense to be borne equally by management and men are still hoped for by the great army of employees on the Boston & Maine railroad. And this despite the fact that President Mellen during his in months' control of the road, has increased the $10,000 formerly expended for annuities to a round $80,000 a year.

The men now say that they feel sure their more fully developed co-operative pension plan, as drafted by Louis D. Brandeis and approved two years ago, by the Massachusetts legislature eventually will be adopted by President Mellen himself.

Even should the gratuitous allowed under the Mellen plan be increased tenfold, they say, their plan will be the best in the end. For men and managements are forever passing in to the great beyond, while the co-operative pension measure devised for them by Brandeis is self-perpetuating, and once adopted, will live so long as the present form of civilization shall continue.
